Since 1961, Lutron has led the way in light control. From the pioneering invention of the first solid-state dimmer (1961) to the invention of the first product to control all light sources without additional interfaces (2001).

The lighting designer's first choice – It's this innovative approach to design and our commitment to pushing the boundaries of convention that have made Lutron the first choice for some of the world's best architects and lighting designers. Lutron light controls are present on projects around the globe, from the spectacular Millennium Bridge in England to the incredible Beijing headquarters of the Bank of China.

Lutron is considered to be the market leader in the field of light controls and control systems – Year after year we are recognised in industry brand preference studies as having the most desirable products in the category of light controls. Lutron was one of the first companies to achieve ISO 9001 in the electrical industry.

Our quality is further evidenced by the many installations from the late 60s and 70s that are still operating properly to this day.

Lutron offers a wide range of light control solutions for commercial and residential customers – These can be grouped into three categories: products that control single lights or groups of lights, products that control all lights in a particular space, and products that control all the lighting in an entire building. Lutron is also the only manufacturer with products that control both artificial and natural lighting through our motorised window treatment products. No matter what the structure, no matter what the environment, Lutron adds the final touch.
